Fifteen-year old mathematical genius Christopher Boone sees the world differently to everyone else. He knows all the countries of the world and their capital cities, every prime number up to 7,507, he doesn't tell lies and his favourite colours are not yellow and brown. When the neighbour's dog is murdered, Christopher takes the investigation into his own hands and uncovers secrets that lead him far from home and change his life forever. Boldly reinterpreting the multiple award-winning bestselling novel, this record-breaking stage phenomenon is filled with heart, humour and wonder.
